

Brand New Website

I am very pleased to announce that the school has a brand-new website. The website sets out our expectations as a school, presents the curriculum, in its entirety, so that you are able to support your children's learning at home and shows the world what Thwaites School has to offer to its children.

I strongly urge all parents and carers to take some time to look through the new website and celebrate our amazing school with us. I would also encourage parents and carers to share this website with friends and family. There is information on the website for new and perspective parents too. See address below.

<https://www.thwaites.cumbria.sch.uk/>

Note: If the website doesn't appear to be loading up correctly then please clear the cache and cookies on the device that you are using.

The website will shortly be followed by a Thwaites School presence on several social media platforms. I will let you know when these go live.

Thank you in advance for taking the time to look through the new website. I sincerely hope you all enjoy the experience.

Mr. M. Redhead

Headteacher